MMIWG2S Alaska Working Group

ABOUT US

The MMIWG2S Alaska Working Group is an Indigenous-led working group that shares communications, strategy, actions, and community building to address the MMIWG2S crisis in our state. The MMIWG2S Alaska Working Group consists of the following organizations:

- Alaska Native Women's Resource Center
- Alaska Native Justice Center
- Alaska Native Heritage Center
- Data for Indigenous Justice
- Native Movement

The working group understands the crisis of Missing Indigenous Womxn, Girls, and Two-Spirit persons is a complex issue, but action is needed NOW. We address this from a healing perspective with our community. We collectively demand justice on all fronts on a state, local, and federal level.

OUR MISSION

To use shared communications, strategy, actions, and community building to address the MMIWG2S crisis in our state together.

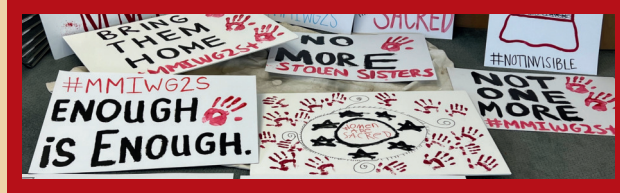

OUR AGREEMENT

Our working group's response is led by our communities' needs. We aim to take up the work that too many families continue to carry. Our strategy moving forward is to grow in our current work while putting resources into these three key areas:

- Ready-to-initiate actions
- Creating new pathways
- Educational outreach

"We have a right to be free from violence, in our own homes and communities."

-- Debra O'Gara

WHO WE ARE

The Missing, Murdered Indigenous Women, Girls, and Two-Spirit (MMWIG2S) Alaska Working Group is an Indigenous-led working group supported by these statewide partner organizations: Alaska Native Women's Resource Center, Alaska Native Justice Center, Alaska Native Heritage Center, Data for Indigenous Justice, and Native Movement. Working group founders began meeting in 2018 and continue to meet weekly to share communications, strategy, actions, and community building to address the MMIWG2S crisis in our state.

WHY WE DO THE WORK

This work is our heartwork. As an Indigenous-led group creating the change we want to see, we are rooted in our shared values and commitment to the safety and wellbeing of our people. We are driven to push for action to address the MMIWG2S crisis in this state in order to protect affected families and communities from being silenced. We do this work to spread awareness and uplift the voices of families, advocates, and Indigenous nations.
